

The MSc programs in the School of Biosciences are designed to achieve the program outcome of developing competent personnel in applied branches of life sciences with good academic standards, skill, technical knowhow, research aptitude, scientific ethics and societal consciousness.

On completion of the MSc Biochemistry program, the student will achieve the following Program Specific Outcomes

PSO1: Acquire the knowledge and skills necessary for understanding the basic structural and functional aspects of various biochemical processes in the complex living system.

PSO2: Apply the knowledge and skills to solve research problems in Biochemistry and allied areas.

PSO3: Develop awareness on maintaining quality assurance in various practical areas of Biochemistry.

PSO4: Generate the ability to use modern tools and methods to work in related industry and health sectors.